

A method for forming the basis of a tower-like structure

